

Facts and Figures

The ZHAW Zurich University of Applied Sciences came into being in 2007 as a result of the merging of four hitherto independent institutions located in the Greater Zurich Area. It is one of the largest multidisciplinary universities of applied sciences in Switzerland, offering 25 Bachelor's degree programmes, 12 Master's degree programmes (partly in cooperation with other universities of applied sciences) as well as 30 Master's of Advanced Studies programmes. The eight Schools of the ZHAW, some of which have a long history, offer education, continuing education, research and development, consultancy and services.
