Glenise L. McKenzie

Glenise McKenzie, RN, Associate Professor, School of Nursing, Oregon Health and Science University Ashland, has been on faculty at OHSU since 2006. She has been an Associate Director of the OHSU Hartford Center for Gerontological Nursing Excellence since 2011. She earned her Masters and PhD in Nursing from the University of Washington, Seattle/USA. She is passionate about promoting and maintaining the physical and mental health of older adults. She teaches undergraduate and graduate nursing courses in the areas of mental health, gerontology, ethics and leadership. Her clinical experience includes over 20 years of providing care for adults and older adults in acute and outpatient psychiatric care settings. Her research has focused on improving the care of individuals with dementia and on enhancing the successful translation of evidence-based dementia care practices in long term care settings.

Dementia: Managing Difficult Behaviors and Depression

This presentation will review the components of an evidence-based non-pharmacological intervention to improve dementia-related behavioral and mood disturbances in older adults living in residential settings. Challenges and opportunities related to the translation of this intervention into «real world» practice will also be discussed.
